

MOST OF WHAT THEY TOLD US ABOUT 9-11 IS FALSE
a few examples ...

THEY TOLD US: No one had anticipated jets of that size crashing into the towers, let alone "fully loaded" with fuel.

IN FACT: Each tower was designed to survive the impact and fire from a collision by a 707-340, only slightly smaller than the 767-200s used on 9-11. A 707 can carry 23,000 gallons of fuel, over twice that onboard either of the 767s at impact. The 767s were carrying less than half their maximum fuel loads.

THEY TOLD US: The fires burned with the heat of nuclear power plants inside the towers and melted the steel.

IN FACT: Jet fuel (kerosene) only burns at a fraction of the temperature needed to melt steel. In any case, the fuel did not last long, as much was consumed in the impact fireballs, and the rest would have evaporated and burned in under 5 minutes. Thereafter the fires were far less severe than other skyscraper fires (such as the 19-hour One Meridian Plaza blaze in 1991). Few flames were visible, and the black smoke indicated the fires were oxygen-starved. Survivors passed through the WTC 2's crash zone, and firefighters who arrived there described "two pockets of fire".

THEY TOLD US: We are lucky the towers stood as long as they did.

IN FACT: If the towers survived the crashes and first 5 minutes, they should have survived indefinitely. Structural steel is a very good conductor of heat, and its strength is a function of temperature. Therefore the towers would have regained most of any strength lost once the jet fuel was used up.

THEY TOLD US: Buildings "collapse" when subjected to great stresses.

IN FACT: Excepting WTC towers 1, 2, and 7 there has never been a case of a steel-frame highrise totally collapsing because of fires or any other cause or combination of causes other than controlled demolition.

TO EXPLAIN THE SYMMETRY OF THE COLLAPSES THEY TOLD US: The towers' outer walls channeled the collapses to within their footprints.

IN FACT: The outer wall was shredded before the bulk of the falling mass reached it. Only the simultaneous inflicting of symmetrical damage (controlled demolition) can bring about such a vertical collapse.

The North Tower passed through itself in a fall that took only about 10 seconds (almost the rate of free-fall). The steel frame was shredded, and the building's concrete and its contents were pulverized in the air to create a volcano-like flows of thick dust that blanketed Lower Manhattan.

The image on the cover is of the North Tower about four seconds into its destruction. The arrow points to pieces of the steel columns hurled about 200 feet away from the building.

Destruction of Evidence is Evidence of Criminality.

Ground Zero was the site of a horrific crime -- the largest one-day massacre of American civilians in history. And it held the clues of the three largest and least-understood structural failures in history. Yet the paramount physical evidence -- the steel -- was sent overseas to be melted down with astonishing haste. It was given no systematic inspection, and no investigation was funded. Volunteer investigators complained about insurmountable barriers.

Other Evidence Belies the Official Story.

Many surviving pieces of evidence expose as false the official explanation that the buildings collapsed of their own weight. These include seismic records showing maximum movement at the beginning of the collapses, rather than at the end as expected in a gravity-driven collapse; numerous eyewitness reports of sounds of explosions at the commencement of each collapse and simultaneous outages in cellphone transmissions; evidence of fires deep in the rubble pile that burned for months, and reports and photographs showing that the bases of the towers' massive core columns had melted.

The Towers' Tops Fell Without Resistance.

The towers fell at near the speed of a falling object encountering no resistance. It is generally accepted that both towers fell completely in about ten seconds -- slightly more than the 9.2 seconds it would take an object in free-fall to fall from the towers' height. But unless the intact portion of the building were demolished before the falling portion encountered it, it would have greatly slowed the fall, as the kinetic energy of the falling mass would be tapped to crush each story encountered and accelerate its mass downward.

The unimpeded free-fall of the tower's tops is proof that the towers did not collapse of their own weight.
